wanted. This is a note which is sounded to the people of the north, that they must retrace their steps; and this very party, which required the sine diments to the constitution to be made in the interest. It was said, of the colored population of the south, is now preparing to face about, retrace its steps, and undo what it did only a few years ago, either divering to y limitection. Indees I thought while the sention from Malne was making his speech how much reason this country, and especially the southern part of the country, had to congratulate itself that the part house of representatives will not have a majority of genteenen thinking like the senator from Malne? I believe six hundred and from Malne? I believe six hundred and threat white, for if he is right in what he said, if his wenty-five thousand; it has been divalating within the less twenty year, and I cont now recoireads are not mere idle wind, and (I certainly do a stiribute any such thing to him) If they are deep-ated and permanent thoughts of those with whom talives in which there was a Republi in Maine are equal to five millions in New York. That is not all, the whole of New E giand has not large and a haif millions population, and yet under the constitution and laws of the land of which I make to complaint, and which is a legitimate thing those three and a haif millions pepulation have six times as much power as sovereign commonwealths that have five millions. They have got as much tower as twenty millions in the large northwestern States that the gentleman called attention to Sir, why is one man in these eastern States that the gentleman called attention to Sir, why is one man in these eastern States can to twenty of the northwest, except by virtue of the constitution, the constitution which we are intending to abide by In all spiell of falmess and equily I will speak to the New England people and tell them that in my opinion, the direct foe they have got on earth is the representative or senator, whether from their own section or any other, that will kindle this fire whose subterrancan flame will flugely the very foundations on which these proud and free commonwealths are now rearing their sepiring heads. The senator is fishing in troubled waters upon this subject, and when you come to compare questions of this kind, you will find that changes of a more radical and fundamental nature will be necessary in order to adjust retresentation to numbers in this country. I will not now proceed, sir, any further in my course of remarks At another time, when these questions come up, if they are to be discussed. I shall participate in the discussion.

Senator Edmunds—Mr. Pres'dent, the point of the senator from New England propose to inquire whether the constitution has been violated in depriving any part of the people of the States of the right to vote for members to congress, etc., he thereby incurs the danger of even selling the constitution sitely, which says that states in this tody shall be equal, and therefore I understand him to put out as a warning, that the propie of New England, through their senat pecial to the Appeal.]
